

A scatter plot on a white background with a black border. It contains a large, dense, horizontally-oriented cluster of blue points. There are several small, isolated groups of blue points scattered around the main cluster. Three red points are also present: one near the top left, one near the bottom center, and one near the top right, all appearing as outliers from the main blue cluster.